

COLLEGE

CHURCH of CHRIST

The College Church of Christ has consistently shown dedication to promoting publications that strengthen the Biblical education of its members and those within its fellowship. This ongoing commitment underscores the church's desire to provide valuable resources for spiritual growth and learning.

Since joining the College Church of Christ in 2015, David Anguish has played a significant role in creating and contributing to books and periodicals designed to meet the educational needs of Christians. Drawing from his experience preaching in multiple congregations, David is now devoted to developing written materials that address the lack of quality resources for Christians around the world.

The elders of the College Church of Christ fully endorse David Anguish's writing ministry. They are actively involved in supporting this effort by assisting with fundraising and managing contributions that help sustain and expand this important work.

Individuals and churches interested in supporting this ministry are encouraged to send contributions to:
